

MATERIAL

Mexico City — December 22nd, 2020

Greetings to all,

Before anything else, we hope each of you has been spared from the difficulties so many have faced this year. We also hope you've been afforded the rare opportunity to slow down and reflect, as we have.

Over seven editions in as many years, Feria Material has grown into a renowned destination fair that celebrates Mexican and international contemporary art in an incomparable context. Since this past March, we've struggled with the question of when and how we might realize our fair's eighth edition in 2021. The answer we finally arrived at is—whether or not we can—we shouldn't.

Instead, we look forward to welcoming you back to the Frontón México in Mexico City from February 10th through 13th of 2022.

Our decision was informed by several important considerations, but most critical for us was how we and our exhibitors might move forward again with certainty. Postponing the eighth edition of Feria Material to 2022 allows us to reframe 2021 as a year of opportunity, not one of continued risk and uncertainty.

So, while we will not be hosting our flagship international event in 2021, we do have exciting new initiatives in store for this coming year. We look forward to sharing more information with you soon.

In the meantime, we wish you all continued emotional and physical well-being and renewed commitment to everyone and everything that you love. Thank you for your support, as always.

Sincerely,

All of us at Material
